

Happy National Veterinary Technician Week!

Down:

1. The go-to medication for ventricular premature complexes
2. Study of drugs
3. Use this when you're trying to obtain a sterile urine sample
4. Tool that tells you your SpO2
5. Use this when you can't see microscopic parasites
7. PCV is an abbreviation for this
8. Common seizure medication
12. You have patients do this prior to undergoing anesthesia
16. You'll most likely find hair, feces, and urine all over me after a long shift
18. You sometimes see me smile under the microscope

Across:

6. You find me in a lavender-top tube
9. Vein on the lateral aspect of a hind leg
10. You fill me up with liquid medication
11. I'm the thickest part of the heart
13. Largest gland in a pet's body that needs protection during radiation
14. Dogs like to wag this part of the spinal column when happy
15. Tool that measures radiation exposure
17. The "V" in LVT
19. The "V" in GDV
20. I like to grasp heavy tissue during surgery

Down:

20. A low red blood cell count
21. Test that measures intraocular pressure
22. Tool that assesses heart rate and lung sounds
23. Longest bone in a dog's body
24. It's a must for all vet techs to drink this before their shift

Across: