

Biography Dominika Spilarova

Dominika Spilarova is Chief Strategy Officer at Cosmo since January 2025. With over 15 years of international Life Sciences and consulting expertise, she has a strong track record of driving revenue growth and creating new revenue streams for organizations with revenues ranging from $26 million to $19.5 billion. Before joining Cosmo, Dominika worked in various senior leadership roles across the Life Sciences industry, as senior management consultant at PwC and founder of her own firm, where she served household industry names and built new departments, divisions, and business capabilities. At Cosmo, she leads strategy development and execution across the company globally, reporting directly to the CEO. Dominika is recognized for her extensive understanding of the end-to-end Life Sciences value chain, maximizing potential in existing operations, building high-performing teams, championing diversity in leadership, and delivering tangible value for all stakeholders.