1. WHAT IS THIS PRODUCT?

Type	Open-ended tracker certificate in the form of Ledger-Based Securities (Registerwertrechte) according to Art. 973d et seqq. Swiss Code of Obligations ("CO") under Swiss law.
Term	The Product (as defined below) does not have a fixed maturity date.
Objectives	SPYon (hereinafter the "Product") is a tracker certificate issued on the Ethereum Mainnet and other blockchain networks which the Issuer may choose to issue on in its sole discretion, a Securities Ledger supported by the Product. The Product is engineered to mirror the price movements of the SPY (SPDR S&P 500 ETF Trust), an exchange traded fund ("ETF") which serves as its underlying reference asset ("Underlying"). The fundamental investment goal of the Product is to replicate the return performance of the Underlying, after the relevant fees and expenses. The Product offers several key advantages, such as faster transaction speeds compared to traditional securities, and it is specifically developed for offering the Investors exposure to the performance of the Underlying while simultaneously leveraging the advantages of the blockchain technology such as enhanced transparency, security, and ease of transfer. Below, the information on the Underlying: • issuer: SPDR S&P 500 ETF Trust; • name: SPY (SPDR S&P 500 ETF Trust); • ISIN: US78462F1030; and • Ticker SPY. The denomination of the Product is US Dollar ("USD"), and the base currency referred to the Underlying is USD. The Product can be transferred freely to other investors only via wallets and the relevant Securities Ledger and is collateralized by the Underlying and any Additional Collateral to fulfil the payment obligations of the Issuer.
Intended retail investors	Retail investors who have the following characteristics: • have sufficient financial resources and liquidity to be able to bear a total loss of the amount invested; • are seeking a speculative investment opportunity that is accompanied by the expectation that the Underlying will gain sufficient value over time to exceed any fees; • have only limited technical capabilities or lack the relevant technical expertise and therefore, instead of investing directly in the Underlying and its ecosystem, with the aid of debt securities with a value based on the Underlying price without having to hold Underlying themselves during the holding period of the Product; • have the ability to make an informed investment decision through having sufficient knowledge and experience to make a meaningful evaluation of the Product, the merits, and risks of investing in the Product and the information contained in the Base Prospectus and Final Terms; and • have a minimum investment horizon of the recommended holding period specified below.

2.WHAT ARE THE RISKS AND WHAT COULD I GET IN RETURN?

RISK INDICATOR

The risk indicator assumes you keep the Product for 5 years. If you cash in at an early stage you may get back less

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this Product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the Product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because the Issuer is not able to pay the Investor.

This Product is rated at level 6 out of 7, indicating a high-risk class. This means potential losses from future performance are considered high, and adverse market conditions are very likely to affect the ability of the Issuer to pay you. Additional risks include market liquidity risk, which may amplify fluctuations. The Product does not offer protection against market downturns; therefore, you may lose all or part of your investment. If the Issuer is not able to pay you what is owed, you could lose your entire investment. Beyond the risk indicator, other factors may affect the Product's performance. Please refer to the Base Prospectus of the Product for full details.

PERFORMANCE SCENARIO

Market developments in the future cannot be accurately predicted. The scenarios shown are only an indication of some of the possible outcomes based on recent returns. Actual returns could be lower or even zero as markets could develop differently in the future.

This table shows the money you could get back over the recommended holding period of 5 years under various scenarios, assuming you invest 10,000 USD. The scenarios shown illustrate how your investment could perform. You can compare them with the scenarios of other products. The scenarios presented are an estimate of future performance based on evidence from the past on how the value of this investment varies and are not an exact indicator. What you get will vary depending on how the market performs and how long you keep the Product. The stress scenario shows what you might get back in extreme market circumstances, and it does not consider the situation where we are not able to pay you. The figures shown include all the costs of the Product itself but may not include all the costs that you pay to your advisor or distributor. The figures do not consider your personal tax situation, which may also affect how much you get back.

3.WHAT HAPPENS IF THE ISSUER IS UNABLE TO PAY OUT?

The focus of the Issuer's business activities is the issuance of the Product directly or indirectly linked to the Underlying. The Investors have recourse only to the collateralised relevant Underlying in respect of the Product, and not to any other assets of the Issuer or any service provider of the Product.

The Product is collateralized through the purchase of the Underlying. When the Investor buys the Product, the Issuer uses the proceeds, minus the costs, to finance the purchase of the Underlying. The value of the Collateral at any point in time must correspond at least to the value of the Product at that time calculated accordingly as specified within the Base Prospectus. The Investors have a primary claim to the Collateral allocated to the Product. In the event the Collateral is insufficient, then the Investors have a claim to any Additional Collateral as detailed within the Base Prospectus.

The Product is neither insured nor guaranteed by any government, regulator or agency. Accordingly, the Investor has no residual claim against the assets of the Issuer (or any service providers to the Issuer) in the event that the Investor suffers any losses in relation to their purchase of the Product.

The Product is a debt instrument and as such is not covered by any deposit protection scheme or other kind of insurance.
