HEY, I'M Dan.

As holo-blok's resident media practitioner I spend most of my days at the intersection of content and tech.

The journey has been long, but it's no where near over. I bring to my media over four decades of experience in radio, television, film, live events, theatre and technical production.

I bring tech in the form of a decade of work on servers, systems, infrastructure, web and of course, media production software.

What does this have to do with architecture. That's a story for another time. Suffice to say, my interest in architecture has found a home at that intersection.

But enough poetry.

I'm a seasoned project manager with a penchant for workflow and documentation. My experience crosses a wide range of industries and businesses. This gives me insight to seek out innovative and creative solutions for presenting your work and telling your story.

I'm a professional photographer, cinematographer, editor and sound engineer. My work covers the entire media landscape.

I've been actively participating in the social media revolution since 2007.

I'm also a talented word-smith, and a specialist in message formulation and story structure. My work has benefited non-profit organizations and small businesses alike.

As an IT professional I have a portfolio of successful projects including software implementations, ERP migration, and server designs and deployments.

There's still so much fun to be had.
