

Verna's Purse

Financial Assistance for Cancer Survivors

Reprotech is committed to making fertility preservation services accessible to individuals facing fertility-threatening cancer treatments. We are proud to offer a generous financial assistance program, Verna's Purse, to support patients dealing with financial hardship during some of the most challenging times.

Qualified applicants can receive a 70% discount on Reprotech's current annual storage fees for three years. Hundreds of oncology patients have already benefitted from this significant discount. Verna would have been deeply moved to know she's still reaching into her purse to lend a hand.

Verna's Purse was created in honor of Verna Hazelrigg, a woman known for her boundless generosity—of time, resources, and love. Verna had one indulgence: her love for designer purses. At just 36, Verna lost her battle with breast cancer, but her spirit of giving continues through this program.

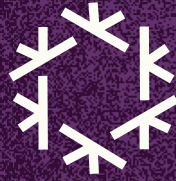

Help your oncology patients save 70% on long-term storage by recommending Reprotech and the Verna's Purse program.

Applications are available at www.vernaspurse.org.

Fertility Preservation Network (FPN)

Our Fertility Preservation Network (FPN) makes it easier for IVF Centers to manage fertility preservation specimens through streamlined group shipping to Reprotech immediately after cryopreservation. This reduces onsite workload and frees valuable tank space, while also giving your patients access to cost-efficient storage they can rely on.

Key features of the FPN program include:

- Most patients cryopreserving for fertility preservation will require at least five years of long-term storage. By transferring these specimens offsite immediately after cryopreservation, we help to reduce both storage and administrative burdens.
- Offsite storage reduces your exposure to cryostorage incidents and loss, including eliminating unclaimed specimens from occurring at your IVF Center.
- Our staff coordinate seamless processes that align with your IVF Center's workflow, including management of specimen transfers through our secure Reprotech Clinic Portal.
- Participating IVF Centers are featured on our customer-facing Fertility Preservation Network webpage and promoted to the oncology community through educational materials and tradeshow.
- Your patients benefit from complimentary transport, economical long-term storage, and financial assistance programs for eligible oncology customers.
