DELGROSSO'S PARK & LAGUNA SPLASH WILL BE CASHLESS STARTING THE 2023 OPERATING SEASON.

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN: Debit, Credit, and Park Gift Cards will be accepted at every Park Point-of-Sale (POS) location throughout the season. EXCEPTION: Our annual Harvestfest, Italianfest, and other Outside Vendors may accept cash transactions.

WHY THE CHANGE: Cashless transactions are typically faster, safer, and more secure for both staff and guests. Like many other entertainment venues, our goal is to create a more convenient dining, retail, and gaming experience.

HOW DOES IT WORK: You will be able to use your Debit or Credit Cards at the Park. If you only have Cash, you will have to convert that to a Park Gift Card using our new Cash-to-Card kiosks.

- CASH-TO-CARD KIOSK: We will have two “reverse ATMs” aka Cash-to-Card kiosks, one on the Water Side and one on the Ride Side. These self-service kiosks accept cash in exchange for a Park Gift Card for use throughout the Park. You must put in exact dollar amounts, as the kiosks do not give change. There are no fees to convert cash to the pre-paid Gift Card at the Cash-to-Card kiosks.
- PARK GIFT CARD DETAILS: Gift Cards Accepted at all Park POS Registers throughout the season. These Gift Cards will not work online at www.MyDelGrossoPark.com or www.DG2GoFood.com. There are no fees to use the Gift Cards and cards do not expire. Gift Cards cannot be reloaded or refunded. Gift Card Balances can be checked at any Park POS Register (Note: 1 point = $1.00). No portion of card balances will be redeemed for cash. Each Gift Card should be treated like Cash. Cardholder is solely responsible for lost or stolen card or any unauthorized use. The unused value of lost or stolen cards cannot be replaced.

Your Health

Men and women have a lot of obvious differences, but there are many that are less obvious, including differing health risks. Being aware of those differences can help you make decisions about your healthcare.

Women's health risks

Changing estrogen levels contribute to several kinds of increased health risks for women. One example is the risk of stroke. Shifting estrogen levels impact the clotting substances in blood. The more the estrogen levels change—such as at menopause—the higher the risk of clotting and the greater the chance of stroke.

Estrogen also helps to protect bone cells. The plunge in estrogen during menopause means women lose much of this protection, which is why almost 50% of women older than 50 will suffer a broken bone due to osteoporosis.

Due to a variety of factors, women also have higher risks of Alzheimer's disease, migraines, multiple sclerosis, and urinary tract problems.

Men's health risks

Some of men's increased health risks are due to riskier behaviors that result in injuries and disease. Men, for instance, tend to eat more meat and fewer vegetables and fruits than women, but anatomy and hormones also have an impact. Men are significantly more likely to develop heart disease, for example. One reason is men tend to gain weight around their middle, which leads to a higher risk of heart problems. Men also don't have the heart benefits of estrogen, which helps to fend off heart disease.

Fifty percent more men than women develop Parkinson's disease. Studies have suggested links to men's lower estrogen levels, as well as to the male X chromosome. Men also tend to be at higher risk of autism, kidney stones, and pancreatitis.

Take action to address risks

Being aware of your specific health risks isn't enough. It's important to take action—visiting your primary care physician, annual physicals and other preventive care—to overcome your health risks.
