

February 2022

The DelGrosso Family proudly celebrates our 75th anniversary with this special commemorative label as a tribute to our humble beginnings. Fred and Murf DelGrosso began canning their original meat flavored spaghetti sauce in 1947. Although our original logo and white label have been modernized and our product has transitioned from cans to jars, our recipe has remained the same.

Now, as America's oldest major family-owned producer of pasta sauce, our passion for "The Finest Sauce Made" is stronger than ever. Thank you for celebrating with us!

The DelGrosso trademark is "The Finest Sauce Made". We are justly proud of this trademark. We use the finest ingredients available, carefully blended to maintain a consistent quality. -1947

DelGrosso Foods celebrates 75 years with throwback label

It's been 75 years since Fred & Murf DelGrosso started canning the very first batches of DelGrosso sauce from a small garage in the back of their amusement park. One of the ways we are celebrating this milestone is by creating a commemorative label for our DelGrosso meat flavored sauce. Not only was meat flavored the very first recipe produced by the new business, then called DelGrosso Packing Company, but it remains one of our best-selling items to this day.

For those who have been around long enough, or have noticed some of the old photos around the plant, you'll know the original product was packed in a white can with a simple logo and tagline: The Finest Sauce Made. This anniversary label was created as a tribute to resemble that original look as closely as possible, though now on glass instead of tin.

We hope every employee will take home a jar or two of this special edition label, which will be run for a few months in the first half of 2022. Whether you are new to this growing company or have spent your entire career at DelGrosso Foods, it's only through your hard work and dedication that our company has managed through the highs and lows over many decades. As we look forward to the next 75 years, we are blessed to know that The Finest Sauce Made remains in good hands.

With sincere appreciation,

The DelGrosso Family

Your sauce—the best!

"Good afternoon, My wife and I have made a lifestyle choice to be healthier, in doing so we have been very careful to read the labels for ingredients on any product that we buy and consume. Kudos to DelGrosso as I was afraid that Sloppy Joe's were going to be a distant memory of mine. My wife found your products at our regular grocery store and it has nothing but high quality ingredients and no high fructose syrup or hydrogenated oils. Needless to say I couldn't be happier! Not only does it meet the ingredient criteria it's the best that I have ever tasted! Thank You for allowing me one of my simple pleasures. Now I'm aware to look for more of your fine products. Keep up your great standards."
- Sincerely Jim and Connie C.

“A Great Employee is like a Four Leaf Clover, Hard to find and Lucky to Have.”

In 2016, the owners of the DelGrosso Family of Companies wanted to start a Years of Service Recognition program.

The first years of service awards were given at the holiday party in 2016, where there were several “catch up” years awarded that night—to get the program started.

This year, awards for 2020 and 2021 were handed out in January 2022. Since we were not able to enjoy a holiday party (thanks, Covid) – the presidents of each company visited with the awardees for a quick thank you and photo session.

Congratulations and Thank You to all of our years of service awardees for 2020/2021!

Oral Health & Your Immune System

Your oral health can either help or hinder your immune system. Bacteria (both beneficial and harmful ones) thrive in your mouth. Gingivitis is a milder form of bacterial overgrowth that can advance into periodontal disease, which poses more serious risks.

Gum disease has been linked to a number of other conditions, such as diabetes, cardiovascular disease, and even low birth weight. Some experts believe dysfunctions of the oral immune system play a role in the development of autoimmune diseases as well.⁸

Your mucosal immune system, which appears to operate independently from your more centralized immune system, serves as an additional protective barrier from bacteria, helping to prevent foreign organisms from making their way into your bloodstream.⁹

Here are some things you can do to support good oral health:

Brush and floss your teeth daily. Practicing good oral hygiene by brushing and flossing your teeth daily can help reduce levels of harmful bacteria in your mouth.

Avoid smoking. Smoking cessation has been shown to reduce the risk of tooth loss as well as the risk of development of periodontitis. (According to the American Dental Association, vaping may be just as risky as cigarette smoking.)¹⁰

Eat a wide variety of plants. Plant-based foods offer a wide variety of phytonutrients that support healthy immune function. There also appears to be a relationship between the bacteria in your mouth and the bacteria in your gut, so eating a plant-based diet may support your immune system in several ways.

Drink plenty of water. Water dilutes and neutralizes substances that accumulate in your mouth, reducing the number of harmful bacteria that linger.

Schedule routine cleanings and check-ups. Be sure to see your dentist regularly, so you can identify issues early and address them before they become a bigger problem.

Practicing good oral hygiene is a simple way that you can help support your immune system.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:

"To inspire people, don't show them your super powers. Show them theirs.

QUOTE FOR THE MONTH:

"The more we express thanks, the more gratitude we feel. The more gratitude we feel, the more we express thanks. It's circular and it leads to a happier life." - Steve Doodier
