DelGrosso Foods, Inc. expanding production line!

Crews having been working hard to bring the structure at Kristel Lane up-to-date and to the high standards of the DelGrosso facilities.

DELGROSSO FOODS AWARDED STATE GRANT FOR EXPANSION

Redevelopment Assistance Capital Program (RACP) Grant Monies Will Help Expand Operations

DelGrosso Foods, Inc., was awarded $1.5 million from the Commonwealth of PA. The Redevelopment Assistance Capital Program (RACP) is designed to assist with acquisition and construction of regional economic, cultural, civic, recreational, and historical improvement projects.

DelGrosso Foods applied for the grant program to aid in the redevelopment of the Kristel Lane Building that the company purchased in March 2019. The addition of that facility provides the company with much-needed space for expanded warehousing and future food manufacturing capabilities. DelGrosso Foods, which is the oldest major family-owned producer of pasta sauce in America, has experienced substantial growth over the past decade and requires more space for its operations. RACP guidelines specify how grants may be utilized. DelGrosso Foods will use the funding to help reduce the overall costs of repurposing the building for warehousing and food production.

Joe DelGrosso, CEO and second-generation family member stated, “We’ve made numerous additions to our existing Tipton sauce plant over the decades, adding warehousing space and expanded production capacity where we could. In order to continue to grow, our only option at this point is to add a second facility. It’s the largest step in the history of the family business since my parents packed those first cans of sauce over 70 years ago.”

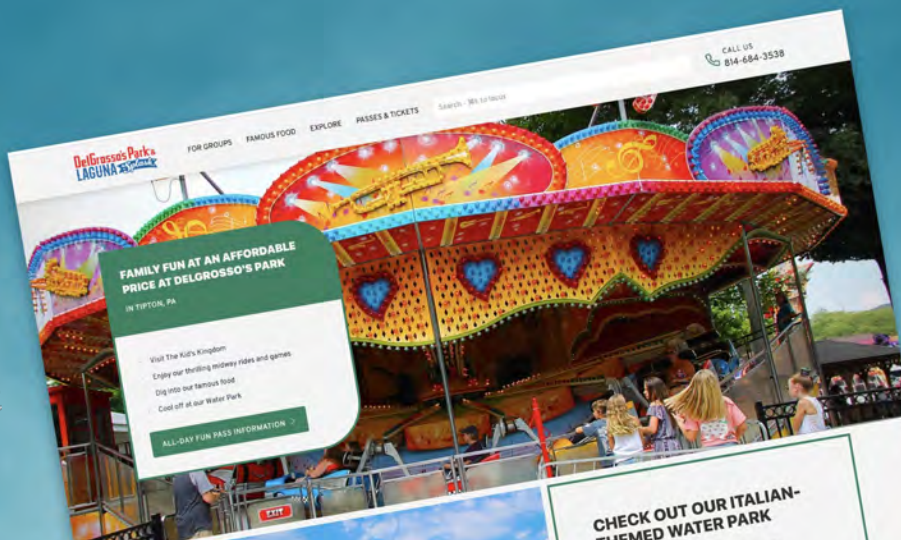

Michael DelGrosso, Chief Sales and Marketing Officer and third-generation family member, says that expanded sales have fueled company growth. “We have a highly dedicated, world-class workforce right here in Blair County that produces DelGrosso branded products for distribution nationally and internationally, packs private label (store brand) products for half of the top 20 grocers in America and produces sauce or salsa for several national brands. We are excited for this next step.”

DelGrosso’s expansion is among the largest single business expansions ever in Blair County,” said Stephen McKnight, President and CEO of the Altoona Blair County Development Corporation. “Locally born and rooted family businesses are the backbone of our economy. We are grateful for DelGrosso’s continued investment and job creation impact and appreciate the support of our state and local officials in critical projects like this,” McKnight added.

DelGrosso Foods worked with the Governor’s Action Team (GAT) and Altoona Blair County Development Corporation (ABCD Corp) as well as PA State Senator Judy Ward and PA House of Representative Jim Gregory for this grant process.

In addition to the $1.5m from the Redevelopment Assistance Capital Program (RACP) program, DelGrosso also received funding from the Department of Community and Economic Development (DCED) for a $166,800 workforce development grant through the WEDnet program to help the company train workers and was encouraged to apply for the department’s Manufacturing Tax Credit (MTC) program. The company has committed to investing $60 million into the project, retaining 90 current positions, and creating nearly 50 new, full-time jobs over the next three years. Loan assistance for the project is being funded by: First Commonwealth Bank, ABCD Corp, and Southern Alleghenies Planning & Development Commission.

feeling the love

I wanted to take the time to reach out. I live locally and have come to your park my entire life and now bring my children! It's a lovely family tradition I am proud to continue. With the uncertainty of the world, I can't tell you how much I appreciate your plans for this summer. The fact that you are taking into consideration the absolute need to mask and sanitize is just another reason I'm proud to have this local gem. I am sure you have and will receive push back from those attending- I pray for your strength to continue these protocols and for the understanding of all visiting. My daughter loves the experience of the park and is excited to share this with her brother who has yet to be able to visit since he is just 18 months. We are excited for another year of memories made! Thank you again!

I have been picking up dinner or soup/pizza almost weekly since last spring when things began shutting down. I typically get dinner for my husband and I, my parents, and 3 older couples from our church that don't go out.

I wanted to write quickly and just say thank you - the food is always good and plentiful and the staff is always friendly and following Covid protocols. Based on our experience in the last year, we will continue to be patrons.

How to Recharge Your Body and Mind

Do you feel overwhelmed? It may be a sign that you need to recharge. Endless to do lists, double-booked calendars, and ongoing family responsibilities can leave you feeling depleted. Burnout can creep up quickly, and often at the most inconvenient times. That is why it is essential to create space to recharge your body and mind on a regular basis.

Here are some things you can try when you need to recharge:

Do therapeutic yoga

Therapeutic yoga<sup>2</sup> has been shown to improve flexibility, strength, and even lung function. The movements commonly associated with yoga also help relieve muscle tension.

Take a cold shower

Being immersed in cold water causes blood vessels to constrict, thereby increasing blood flow. This increases the amount of oxygen that gets supplied to your cells, and helps remove toxins more quickly. Athletes are known to use ice baths and cold showers as a way to speed up the post-workout recovery process.

Get some nature therapy

Spending time outside in nature, sometimes referred to as forest bathing, has shown<sup>3</sup> promising results with reducing depression, anxiety, and fatigue. The simple act of taking a walk outside can be an effective way to clear your mind and find creative solutions to problems.

Sleep

Getting at least seven hours of restful sleep each day is essential for good health. Sleep enhances cognitive function, which is essential for good problem-solving and reasoning skills.

Take some time to experiment with different recharging strategies to see which ones are the most effective for you.
